

Zika Community Outreach Project

Buddhist Tzu Chi Foundation

2017

Debra Boudreaux

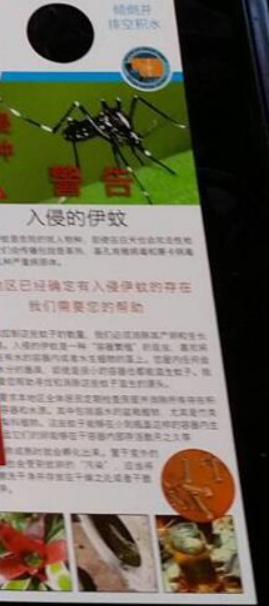

Tzu Chi has been working with San Gabriel Valley Vector Control and Los Angeles Public Health to conduct community outreach building Zika awareness. Volunteers divide up by teams to visit restaurants and residential neighborhoods once a week. Tzu Chi volunteers receive training from Vector Control team and public health department first and then participate in the exercise. After that we move into action.

Due to this collaboration, the project has been documented by media outlets and shared with the TV news media in Asia.

This is the 3rd project that we have mobilized for community health education besides the flu clinic. The three projects are H1N1, Ebola and Zika.

Without the first H1N1 project, we would not have moved into Ebola and Zika. We are grateful to IHP Emory for opening the door.

Volunteers share the Zika Flyers in multiple languages

Volunteers visit restaurant

Explaining what Zika is and where the Zika eggs are

自取 小菜/飲料 請先在櫃台付錢
SELF SERVICE DRINKS PLEASE PAY FIRST

Restaurant
Owner Pledged to Support

Restaurant love to display the Lucky Bamboo where the Zika loves to stay

80 y.o. Lorma loves potted plants and very surprised that the dead water will host Zika

The assignment is not easy. Sometimes we have to stay at the door and use 3 min education tools

23 y.o. resident received the Zika
flyers and message
at their door

Anyone is home?
Volunteers
knocked on doors
one by one

Volunteers visit the hair dresser shop to ask for their support .

